Penyard House

“Penyard House has a fascinating history dating back to the early 18th century. Located less than 4 miles from the historic market town of Ross-on-Wye the house was previously know as the Wye Hotel, which was then purchased in 1984 by The Leadership Trust Foundation; a charity responsible for restoring the building, and retaining many of the original features which are still evident to this day, whilst additionally developing both the grounds and accommodation. The original treasures within the house include the magnificent drawing room, and spectacular panelled room – a particular favourite amongst guests.

Over the past ten years the house has been the headquarters for the charity, providing challenging leadership training and high impact development programmes, whilst additionally expanding the venue’s facilities in order to accommodate a variety of bespoke events, corporate functions, and weddings.

More recently Penyard has undergone some exciting changes as the house was purchased in October 2014 by British Entrepreneur Luke Johnson, who rebranded and added the house to the ‘Genuine Group’. The house is now managed by a team of fashionable foodies and creative event managers responsible for maximising the selection of services available at the hotel; transforming Penyard House into a prestigious destination suitable for any occasion.
